

Smart wins new contracts

Smart Telecom, the broadband provider which was recently re-financed, has won new contracts for its next-generation network services with software company SAP and Galway County Council.

Smart provided SAP with a new E-Line connection between its operations in Dublin and Belfast and upgraded the infrastructure between its Dublin and Galway operations. Galway County Council is using Smart to connect its Galway city offices to the Government's virtual private network (VPN) using fibre and private DSL connectivity.

Both contracts will run for a minimum of two years and are worth an estimated €235,000 to Smart.
